BIRTH.

On the 7th July, at Weybridge, Surrey, the wife of Edward Osborne, of a son.

The Daily Press.

HONGKONG OFFICE: 14, DES VUEX ROAD, CL.
LONDON OFFICE: 131, FLEET STREET, E.C.

HONGKONG, 11TH JULY, 1904.

THE way of those who would re-organize the British army, with, of course, a commendable view of improvement, does not seem to be strewn with roses. Neither, some critics would fain add, is it hedged with common sense. The report of the Commission appointed to ponder prudent changes in the Militia and Volunteer Forces of our kingdom furnished little evidence wherewith to rebut the disrespectful allegations of those who esteem not them that are set in authority; nor, indeed, did it afford the slightest encouragement to such of us as hope for a rehabilitation of a lately much mud-bespattered system. There should be some hesitation in entering at the Commission, however, for it seems they were but indifferently briefed. There was more than a doubt as to the precise nature of the general effect of the conflicting views of the Secretary of State, the Commander-in-Chief, and the Defence Committee of the Cabinet: a very apparent mystery, in fact, for three or four months, as to what data to go upon, or what goal to aim at. They were told that a provision of two hundred thousand volunteers would meet the needs of the mobilisation scheme; but they were not definitely instructed what those needs were, what—that is to say—the volunteers were expected to do when got. It has been evident ever since the Report was made public that the deliberators were unable to decide if the volunteers should continue to be auxiliary forces, or whether the militia and volunteers were intended to act practically independent of the regulars. Their somewhat startling recommendation of conscription, or rather, compulsory service, may be supposed to have been based upon the latter assumption, that the idea was for the home-staying arm of the service to act alone. It is not very likely that such was the view of Downing Street, but as to that, who can say? In any case, it seems a pity that what we cannot help regarding as over-emphasised, if not exaggerated, strictures upon the inadequacy of the army, and over insistence upon our unpreparedness for things unlikely to occur, should have set our Statesmen to mooting such radical changes. The natural and proper treatment for some blonishes, such as have been indexed quite frequently enough in the last year and a half, is to effect such changes of personnel as experience has demonstrated to be obviously desirable. Such treatment followed, and was bound to follow, without any necessity for the promulgation of such hare-brained schemes as the one not long ago abandoned by the Cabinet, or of such a still sillier proposal as our telegram of this morning indicates Mr. Arnold Forster's to be. It is true that greater efficiency is desired in the case of the arms we have; it is none the less true that we want those arms numerically stronger. If the Standard has not been misled in announcing that Mr. ARNOLD FORSTER's revised scheme of army re-organisation means, inter alia, the abolition of the Militia, the dismissal of sixty thousand of the least efficient Volunteers, and the withdrawal of men from South Africa, Malta, and Gibraltar, we can easily foresee the raging storm of criticism that will arise to nip it in the bud, or to prompt the Defence Committee to lop the flower before it inclines to seed. For more years than we care to put a figure to, those acquainted with the inner workings of the Volunteer movement have known many pleadings for more encouragement, for fewer red-tape restrictions; and noting the deaf ear, have shrugged and murmured "War Office" in a tone of significance scarcely warranted by the apparent innocuousness of the phrase itself. It is not nonsense to say that with the present voluntary system strength and efficiency can be achieved and maintained. Perhaps it would be safer to say, with the addition to the War Office of what we may for the present style a Home Defence Office, each office to act independently under the supreme authority. We are told that it would not be sufficient even if all men obeyed the PROPHET KIPPLING, and learned to shoot. The lesson of the Yalu, we are told, supercedes the prelate lesson of the Transvaal. It in turn will be set aside by the lesson of Somewhere-else. The learning of one's lessons is an admirable thing, but the vehemence of the succeeding legions of critics bewilders, and bids us wonder if it may not be overdone. For instance, those enamoured of the "new thing under the sun" insist upon the likelihood of an invasion of England. To those who regard it as not sufficiently probable to warrant the incontinent transformation of Merrie England into a garrison, they cry: "Be logical. Be consistent. Why not abolish the volunteers and militia altogether if you feel so secure?" And they add: "Do not put your trust in your vaunted ironclad bulwarks round your shores. A few well-placed torpedoes, a chance mine or two, may cripple the fighting efficiency of the finest fleet afloat." Is that a scare due to happenings in the Yellow Sea; or is it, after all, that we have been guilty of wasteful, extravagant folly in our efforts toward naval supremacy? If the value of our navy is so dubious, in truth, may the anti-conscriptionists not in turn say: "Be logical. Be consistent. Fill the island home with soldiers, and abolish the navy?" But this is all words, words and wind. Surely that nation, while hardly yet recovering its breath from one war, that could produce so much martially minded material as bombarded the Japanese Embassy in London with offers to serve under the sun-rayed flag, is not ripe for such a drastic and uncompensated change as legislated conscription implies. Let the Volunteer Force be treated now as it would be if the morrow promised work for it, and there will soon be an end to the crop of such fantastic schemes as Reuten outlines for us this morning.

Plague claimed seven victims in the twenty-four hours ending Saturday noon. Four of the cases proved fatal.

The name of Mr. Thomas Luff Perkins has been officially added to the list of architects authorised to practise in Hongkong.

Owing to residents leaving their windows open on warm nights of late several articles have disappeared from houses in Conduit Road.

Rural Building Lot No. 118, situated at Plantation Road, will be offered for sale by public auction at 3 p.m. to-day at the P.W.D. offices; upset price, $2,228.

Police-Sergeant Gordon, now stationed at Sham Shui Po, has received appointment as Inspector of Nuisances under the relevant Ordinance of 1896.

The Superintendent of Chinese Students in Japan has been requested to send over the most capable of the students to be an assistant teacher in the new commercial school at Peking.

New Sanitary Inspectors appointed are Messrs. J. Williamson, D. McHardy, W. Cameron, W. Robertson, and A. Gordon.

H.E. the Officer Administering the Government notifies in the Gazette the appointment of Arthur Frost Forster, L.R.C.P., M.R.C.S., as Deputy Health Officer of the Port, vice Robert Gibson.

In the Government Gazette distributed on Saturday appears a revised scale in which are stipulated the medicines, &c., and quantities thereof, that must be taken to sea by Chinese passenger ships.

Captain George F. King Hall, who was one of the Commissioners who on behalf of Great Britain took over Weihaiwei on lease from China in 1898, has been promoted to the rank of Rear-Admiral.

The sale, by public auction, is advertised of the s.s. Hongkong as she now lies in, approximately, Lat. 24° 43' N., Long. 118° 43' E. Further particulars can be got from Messrs. J. E. Thomson & Co., auctioneers, Amoy.

We are informed that we were in error in saying that the motor launch described in Saturday's paper was the only one of the kind in Hongkong. Messrs. Kew are said to have had one running since January.

It is stated that Mrs. Mary Etzel, mother of Lewis Etzel of Denver, the war correspondent who was killed by Chinese soldiers, will file a claim against the Chinese Government for $20,000 damages. The case has been put in the hands of attorneys who will seek the aid of the State Department at Washington in enforcing the claim.

By special regulation made on the 5th inst., the Officer Administering the Government forbids foreign warships to examine or survey the shores or waters of the Colony; and requires in the case of foreign soldiers or sailors wishing to land that they must first obtain permission through their respective Consuls.

The International Cotton Spinners' Congress at Zurich in May resolved to take steps to establish a permanent organisation of the cotton trade throughout the world to protect their interests. It was also decided to urge cotton exchanges at New York, New Orleans, Liverpool and Alexandria to consider measures to prevent speculation, and to draw the attention of the Governments in Europe to the matter.

Much regret will be felt throughout the East at the death of Mr. Charles Palmer, senior partner of the old established wine merchants, Messrs. Cutler, Palmer & Co., which took place in London recently. The late Mr. Palmer joined the firm as far back as 1854, and became senior in 1892. He resided in Bombay in charge of the Eastern branches from 1857 to 1892, and since that year has made six different visits to China, etc. Residents who met him on these occasions will remember him as a typical example of the fine old English gentleman.

From a copy of a Hawaiian newspaper, the "Napepa Kuokua" printed entirely in the Hawaiian language, the Singapore Free Press quotes, and says: "It gives much prominence to the war, as might be expected from the numerous Japanese community in Hawaii. Here is a sample telegram, displaying old friends with new faces, such as Poto Ata:—

In December last the Merchant Service Guild were informed by one of their members, of a gallant rescue of a Lascar who, with others of the crew, was on the forecastle head of the British India Steam Navigation Co's s.s. Obera. The men were making things secure in the Gulf of Lyons when the vessel shipped a heavy sea and washed the Lascar overboard. The sea was too rough to launch a boat in time to save the man, and the second officer, Mr. R. A. M. Ayres, M.S.G., seized a line, and notwithstanding the heavy sea, jumped in and effected a courageous rescue. On hearing of this incident the Guild communicated with the British India Steam Navigation Co. in order to obtain full particulars for representation to the Royal Humane Society. The Guild have just received from Mr. Ayres the Bronze Medal of the Society, together with a certificate signed by the Prince of Wales as President, stating that it was unanimously resolved that the award should be presented to the officer under notice for his courage and humanity and for having saved life from drowning.

TYPHOON WARNING.

General Bragg, the United States Consul-General, courteously forwarded us a copy of a telegram despatched from Manila Observatory at 10 a.m. Saturday morning, reading: "Typhoon in the Pacific, N. E. of Manila."

WILLING TO TREAT WITH TIBET.

LONDON, 7th July.
Mr. Balfour speaking in the House of Commons said that the policy of the Government in regard to the Tibet Mission was unchanged. Negotiations might be opened at any moment during the advance, with a competent and properly empowered negotiator. The Government did not desire to ask terms at variance with previous declaration.

BRITISH ARMY RE-ORGANIZATION.

LONDON, 7th July.
The Standard learns that Mr. Arnold Forster's revised scheme of Army re-organization will virtually sweep the Militia out of existence. Sixty thousand of the least efficient Volunteers will be struck off, the South African Garrison reduced by 5,000 men, and Malta, Gibraltar, and other outposts partly denuded. The scheme, which is not yet approved of by the Defence Committee, is an amazing budget of impossible proposals, more impracticable than the abandoned scheme recently before the Cabinet.

WE GUARD BEHRING SEALERIES.

LONDON, 7th July.
Mr. Balfour stated in the House of Commons that Great Britain was protecting the Behring Sea fisheries at the request of Russia and Japan; no international questions could possibly arise; Great Britain would not exercise any jurisdiction over Japanese vessels, and Japan promised to deal with any raid herself.

ALIEN RESTRICTION BILL.

SUCCESSFUL COLONIAL AT HENLEY.

DEMOCRATS WAIVE CURRENCY QUESTION.

THE GIFT OF PROPHECY.

LONDON, 7th July.
General the Hon. Sir N. G. Lytton, speaking at a banquet, said he was far from happy about the new Army scheme.

The money is short, and the men short, both in numbers and stature. Though no Government in the near future would care to tackle compulsory service, they would be forced to consider it before long.

PIRACY.

We seem to have heard more about piracy within the past few days than we have done for months. The captain of the s.s. Mac Foo, it will be remembered, recently reported having passed three pirate junks off Kupchi Point, about 25 miles from Breaker Point, Capt. Ellis, of the Naval launch Alexandria, was attacked by pirates in the waters of Nanki Island, and the most recent case of all happened in the waters of this Colony. On the 14th inst. a gang of pirates held up a junk moored off Lanlao Island. They then attacked another boat, but one of the occupants of this escaped and reported the matter to the Tai-o Police Station. P. Sergt. Floyd, in charge of the local force of Indian police, hurried to the scene, and four of the pirates were captured. One of the Indian constables, Bhan Singh by name, received a slight scalp wound while taking part in the arrest. The case has been remanded till the 14th inst.

THE LATE MR. DORABJEE NOWROJEE.

SUGGESTED MEMORIAL FUND.

Addressing the large concourse of mourners at the Parsee Club on Saturday afternoon, after the "third day" ceremonies, Mr. H. N. Mody said (in part) that they all knew the genial and kindly character of Mr. Dorabjee Nowrojee—his ready sympathy with all classes, how he could be old with the old and young with the young, his liberal and unostentatious charity. Of him it could be truly said that his left hand knew not what his right hand did. They knew how the less fortunate members of their community could always rely on his assistance, not only in relieving their pressing necessities, but in finding employment for those requiring it, while his friendly counsel and advice were always at their disposal. Nor did he confine his acts of charity to the Parsee community alone, but he was liberal to all alike whatever their creed or nationality. He was, as they knew, a very liberal contributor to the charity funds of their own "Anjuman," of which he was one of the trustees, and it would be very difficult, if not impossible, to find anyone to worthily fill his place. His (Mr. Mody's) object in addressing them was to propose that they should that day open a fund in connection with their own "Anjuman," which should at once be a tribute of respect to their lamented benefactor and should keep his memory green in future generations. The fund should be called the "Dorabjee Nowrojee Fund." He (Mr. Mody) would have much pleasure in subscribing, and he commended it to their liberal consideration.

THE WAR.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

JAPANESE CAPTURE KAIPING.

KORE, Saturday, 3.35 p.m.

Kaiping, on the west of the Liaotung Peninsula, south of Newchwang, is captured by the Japanese.

[This is part of the advance on Mukden. The Japanese left Siung-yo, or Hsiung-yo, last Wednesday.—Ed.]

[JAPANESE OFFICIAL DESPATCH.]

OFFICIAL CORROBORATION.

Tokyo, 10th July, 3.10 p.m.

General Oku reports that the second army commenced operations for occupying Kaiping on the 6th inst.

After successfully dislodging the Russians from their positions, we finally occupied Kaiping and neighbouring heights on the 9th inst.

[REUTERS' SERVICE.]

ON THE ROAD TO MUKDEN.

LONDON, 7th July.

General Sakharoff reports a general advance of the Japanese on the 6th instant from Siung-Yo-Cheng northwards. The Russians in retiring sustained a score of casualties. The Japanese are eight miles south-east of Kaichow.

NOT FAR FROM GENSAN.

LONDON, 7th July.

Admiral Skrydloff reports that the Vladivostok squadron encountered seven large Japanese warships in Broughton Bay. The squadron turned back, the Japanese pursuing and firing without result. Eleven torpedoers attacked the Russians, and it is believed that two were sunk. The Japanese disappeared in the morning, leaving the Russians undamaged and without casualties.

OFFICERS ALL HORS DE COMBAT.

The Shimonsaki correspondent of the Asahi sends to his paper a narrative, furnished by those of the crews of the Hitachi and Sado who have survived the transport disaster, which shows how merciless was the Russian fire. It is stated, says the Kobe Chronicle, that all the men holding responsible positions on board the Hitachi have died or are missing. A helmsman, who was at the wheel on the bridge of the Hitachi at the time of the disaster and has survived, gives a vivid account of the last moments of Captain Campbell and other officers. Captain Campbell, according to this man, just before firing commenced gave the order to put the helm hard a-starboard, and the wheelman at once obeying, the steamer turned 180 degrees. Just as this order had been executed a projectile broke one of the captain's legs. Instead of leaving the bridge, Captain Campbell sat down where he had been standing. While he was speaking to Mr. Kimura, the Second Officer, who was also on the bridge, the latter was struck by another projectile, and fell dead at the captain's feet. There being now no capable commander on the bridge, the helm was still hard a-starboard, so that the steamer quickly described a circle and at last appeared to be making straight for the Russian ship, which caused the people of the lately sunk Idzumi, who were on board the Gronowit, to think that the Hitachi intended to ram her. It is believed that for this reason the Russian ship fired, without mercy at the Hitachi, which carried a large number of troops. This can be inferred from the fact that the Russians showed no quarter and almost exterminated all on board. The survivors allege that they fired hundreds of shot at the Hitachi, even shooting the people struggling for their lives in the water. If there had been anyone on board who could have righted the helm at this time, and the steamer had been directed at full speed towards the shore of Chikuzen, she might have been sunk nearer the land than she actually was, and more lives might have been saved, as many fishing smacks were about. The speed of the Hitachi could have been developed to 20 knots an hour, and it was the correct course for Captain Campbell to attempt to escape. His determination and courage, the seamen think, merit the highest praise. What is to be most regretted is that the steamer lost her officers, who would have adjusted the helm, and that the engines of the steamer were so speedily disabled.

A GEISHA ROMANCE.

A soldier from Ibaragi prefecture on the Hitachi had a remarkable escape. He could not swim, but when the Hitachi was sunk he managed to float, discovering a spar to which he clung. Some while afterwards he was picked up by a junk and was taken on board the Sado with others who were rescued, and all received very kind assistance. They were supplied with fresh clothing. When he was changing his clothes a samisen string was found tied around his body. According to his story, while he was waiting at Hiroshima for the steamer, he was entertained one day at a certain tea house, one of the geisha offering to make him a farewell present. She took off one of the strings of her samisen and tied it around the soldier's body, saying that so long as the string should be tied around his body his life would be safe. Of course he regarded the maiden's prophecy as nonsense, but he allowed the string to remain round his waist. The day following they left Hiroshima and met with the disaster. He quite expected to be drowned, and whether his escape from death was due to the witching influence of the samisen string or not, he naturally recalls the incident when he thinks how he managed to save himself.

A YALU VIGNETTE.

Here is a graphic bit of description by a Russian correspondent, of one of the engagements at the Yalu battle. Colonel Mouravsky's battery, which was sent from the reserve, in returning encountered a hot fire from the Japanese. The commander of the machine gun section, recognising the danger of Mouravsky's battery, turned with his men in their retreat and endeavoured to assist the surrounded artillery to get free. Though Mouravsky's men were falling fast under the tremendous fire of the advancing Japanese, they remained by their guns, working them until almost every man was killed or wounded. It was impossible to escape under a fire so hotly sustained. Old officers who were in the fighting line after the battle stated that they do not remember ever having experienced so fierce a cannonade, even at Plevna. It became an extremely difficult task for the 11th Fusiliers to hamper the operations of the Japanese three divisions so as to cover the retreat. During the retreat the vanguard and companies took no part in the fight. The performance was undoubtedly without parallel in history. Observing the Japanese making their way on the Russian left flank, the Fusiliers occupied a position from which they were able to prevent the onrush of thick masses of infantry. Whilst in this position the regiment was completely surrounded, but resisted and kept back their foe for fully two hours before the word to retire was given. To execute this movement a bayonet charge became necessary, and a way was absolutely cut through the surrounding ranks of the Japanese to join the remaining Russian troops. But a stirring example to make the charge was set the soldiers by the priest of the regiment. Father Tcherbakowski, raising above him a crucifix, and standing before the men, still under a terrible fire, encouraged them to make the dash. Thereupon the Fusiliers, cheering enthusiastically, charged with their bayonets, and succeeded in literally carving their passage through the packed masses of Japanese. Father Tcherbakowski, raising above all the holy emblem, kept pace, and received two wounds in the rush, one in the hand and the other in the chest, but he continued urging on the men throughout the gallant charge. All officers who took part in the affair assert that none of their men surrendered, and indignantly deny the Japanese official statements made to the contrary. They persist that those who were taken prisoners by the Japanese were only the wounded officers and soldiers left on the battlefield.

R. A. O. B.

On Saturday evening the members of the Royal Antislavery Order of Buffaloes entertained their friends to a very enjoyable smoking concert in their Club Rooms in Queen's Road. Mr. J. H. Oxberry, president, was in the chair, and was supported by Mr. Goodhall, vice-president; while Mr. J. J. Blake, secretary, saw after the comfort of the visitors and the general arrangements. A capital programme, arranged by Mr. Walston, was submitted, and so good was the entertainment that everyone felt sorry when it had to be brought to a close at midnight. Mr. MacLean acted as pianist with his accustomed ability and was uttaring in his efforts. Among the features of the evening were Mr. Bacon's "The Deathless Army," Mr. Oxberry's "The Carnival," Mr. Rogers's "Every Bullet"; a trio, "Toll me, gentle shepherd," by Messrs. Bacon, Harris and Walston; a recitation entitled "Mother Hubbard," by Mr. Goldenburg; hamjo solos by Mr. McGrann, and mandoline solos by Mr. Allwork. There were plenty of comic songs among those sung. In this line Mr. Evans and Mr. Walston distinguished themselves and both got encores. Among others who contributed to the harmony were Mr. Harris (baritone), who sang finely the ballad "Because I love you"; Mr. Cooper, tenor song "Liza Johnson"; Mr. Purser, gramophone selections; Mr. Leung, comic song, "Oh, what a difference"; and Mr. Neal, concertina solos. At the conclusion of the concert Mr. Oxberry made a few remarks about the condition of the club and its aims. When it started, he said, there were only some 16 members; now there were about 130. They wanted still more, and he urged all those present who were not Buffaloes to join at once. The toast of "The Order" was drunk with honours. Afterwards the visitors were toasted by Mr. Goodhall, Mr. Poole responding. "God save the King" brought the concert to a close.

THEATRICAL.

The Orpheum Comedy Company arrived in Hongkong yesterday morning by the s.s. Anhui. They open at the Theatre Royal on Tuesday. During a long stay at Manila, this company gave more than satisfaction, and recently at Shanghai and Tientsin their entertainment was kindly criticised. The lady who went a little too far at Tientsin is said to have left the company. Folk who are able to enjoy a lively and very funny T. O. I. programme will find what they want at the Theatre Royal to-morrow.

HONGKONG JOTTINGS.

A correspondent enquires of me what is the respective rank that the Governor of Hongkong holds in relation to the Naval and Military Commanders in the Colony. Well, Sir Matthew Nathan, for instance, will be honorary Lieutenant-General of the Forces and honorary Commander-in-Chief of the Navy. But his honorary positions interfere in no way with the prerogative of these two Executive Commanders. Troops can be moved and warships despatched without reference to the Governor, though he, as ultimate representative of His Majesty the King here, enjoys superior rank by courtesy. Of course in the case of local trouble the Governor could call upon either Commander to lend assistance, but this would be more in the nature of a request than an order.

The business, calling, or profession of a thief in Hongkong appears to be on the whole both safe and profitable. Hardly indeed is the wily burglar caught, and I fancy the number of these rascals carrying on operations in the Colony increases as the years roll onward. Last year the value of the property reported stolen reached, according to the police returns, what I believe to be the biggest amount on record in the Colony. The precise amount was $228,061.37, and property to the value of only $26,344.16 was recovered by the police. There were 114 burglaries and 367 larcenies from dwelling houses reported to the police last year, but only 28 convictions for burglary were secured and 25 for larcenies from dwelling houses. All of which goes to prove that the profession of the Chinese Sykes is both safe and profitable in Hongkong. During the past few weeks there has been quite an epidemic of impudent burglaries on the island and in Kowloon, but I have not observed in the police court reports that a single case has been brought before the magistrates, except that in which Mr. Fung Wa Chun was the victim. Why is it? I am told that one terrace in Kowloon has, in the space of a few days, been treated to a succession of nocturnal visitations by burglars, and as further evidence of their impudence and daring I am informed that valuables have even been removed, and in one case a revolver, from under pillows while the owners slumbered and slept. Whether robbery is as safe in the Colony this year as last I am unable to say, but it is at least far more rife than it ought to be, and in view of the public dissatisfaction with this state of things the Government might very well consider the advisability of holding an inquiry into the organisation, strength and efficiency of the Police Force.

On the mainland I have read that a Guild of Thieves is a recognised institution to which watchmen and gatekeepers pay a monthly fee by way of insurance against theft from the premises under their charge. The system works well, I am told. If any thief unconnected with the guild—that is any common or garden unprofessional thief—commits a robbery, the guild is generally successful in tracing him and taking notice of his unprofessional conduct in a form which would not commend itself to the humane sentiments of British Magistrates. What one reads about guilds of thieves in China suggests the conclusion that they insure better protection of property than appears to be possible by the Police Force of a British Colony. Is it really so?

When comparatively young men write the biographies of old men errors of fact are bound to creep into the story unless it is compiled from written or printed records. In the accounts which have appeared in the Press of the career of the late Mr. Dorabjee old residents have noted a few such errors, one at least of which in the interests of historical accuracy is worth correcting. It is, I am informed, hardly correct to say that the late Mr. Dorabjee was the founder of the Kowloon ferry service. That distinction belongs to Mr. Grant Smith, who is still residing in the Colony. Mr. Smith came to Hongkong in 1862, and when he took a trip home in 1868, he purchased from the firm of Yarrow and Hodge the engine for the first steam launch that was employed in the waters of the Colony. He subsequently sent further orders of the kind to the firm, getting the boats built here. Mr. Smith started a ferry service with a twin-screw launch in 1870, but thirty-four years ago the passenger traffic between the island and the mainland was not what it is to-day, and the first effort to establish a ferry service was consequently not a paying one. Times have changed since then, and when it is added that the firm which supplied Hongkong with its first steam launch was a struggling little concern we can say that firms have changed with the times, for the old firm of Yarrow and Hodge is now known the wide world over as the great Thames shipbuilding firm of Yarrow & Co.

The Public Works Department are not to be congratulated on their management of affairs at Queen's Road East. Arsenal Street has been blocked for some time, and the road notices have been so situated as to divert the whole of the rich traffic through that somewhat unsavoury byway, Ship Street.

The Police have decided to appeal at the Supreme Court regarding Mr. Gompertz's decision as to bamboo poles. Mr. Gompertz, it will be remembered, recently held that cooies carrying bamboo poles along side-walks, under verandahs, etc., were not, under the ordinance, causing an obstruction. The necessary $500, I understand, has been deposited at the Supreme Court, in the name of a Chinese constable, a recent complainant, to defray the cost of appeal. If the Chief Justice's finding in the matter is the same as Mr. Gompertz's there will be need for legislation.

BANYAN.

LOCAL SPORT.

RACING.

Stabling. formerly owned by Mr. J. Lewis, now the property of a syndicate, is training for the Gymkhana meeting, and making some very good times. Mr. Alderton, it will be remembered, brought Starling home in the hurdle race at the last Gymkhana. Mr. John Peel's Glenburn is also doing very well. It is the opinion of many that Jardine's stable should carry off most of the honours with Ce Cenny, the winner of the East Point Cup and Gymkhana Club Challenge Cup at the last meeting, and Desert King, the noted pony which won races at Shanghai. A few days ago Mr. Inglis's Belphe did the mile in 2 min. 16 sec., the last quarter in 32 sec. Mr. H. S. Soti's Dormouse has also been out lately.

WATER POLO.

The Water Polo Association invites entries for the forthcoming shield competition. Teams desirous of entering are asked to send a representative to the meeting to be held at the V.R.C. premises, Kowloon, on the 13th inst. at 6 p.m. sharp.

THE CHANGINGOVER C.C.

The lawn tennis competition "Kowloon & Hongkong," played at the Craigengower C.C. ground on Saturday afternoon, resulted in a victory for the former. A number of visitors, including ladies, witnessed the games, played at times receiving well-merited applause. After the contest was over Mrs. Braidwood gave away the prizes in connection with the 1903-4 and 1903-5 cricket seasons, and those of the 1903 tennis tournament.

Mr. Asger, secretary of the Club, explained to Mrs. Braidwood and the visitors that the conditions for winning outright the Challenge Shield, presented to the Club by Mr. E. R. Bellis, C.M.G., for the highest batting average, were that it should be won two years in succession, or any three seasons. Mr. R. Bana had won it three times (upplause).

Mrs. Braidwood congratulated Mr. R. Bana as she presented to him the handsome silver shield. Mr. R. Bana won it in the 1898-9 season, Mr. M. E. Asger 1899-0, Mr. R. Bana 1900-1, Mr. J. P. Jordan 1901-2, and Mr. R. Bana 1902-3.

The prize for the highest bowling average during the 1902-3 season was then presented to Mr. M. H. Hartman. Mr. Hartman, really, was second to Mr. R. Pestonji, but Mr. Pestonji having won this prize on a previous occasion was excluded.

Mr. A. O. Brown won the Bellis Challenge Cup for the 1903-4 season. The Cup was presented by Mr. Bellis for highest batting averages on the same terms as the Bellis Shield.

Mr. E. R. Horton won the bowling prize for the 1903-4 season.

Mr. A. O. Brown, with Mr. F. Rapp as runner-up, carried the scratch singles in the 1903 tennis tournament. The "doubles," as won by Messrs. A. O. Brown and J. P. Jordan. The prize-giving, concluded, Mr. Asger, thanked Mrs. Braidwood, saying that he hoped they would see her again at the Club. He presented her with a very pretty bouquet of flowers.

Mr. Braidwood, on behalf of his wife, thanked Mr. Asger. He was glad to see the Club so well to the fore. The cricket arrangements last season were mainly the work of their secretary, who was the principal mover in arranging the League. The Club certainly was not on top of the list, but he hoped that things would be different next year. They had received a photograph of the winning team, which they would have much pleasure in putting up in their pavilion.

Three cheers and a tiger for Mrs. Braidwood, and three more for the ladies, terminated the proceedings.

INTERPORT CRICKET.

The Hongkong Cricket Club, it will be remembered, recently invited the Singapore Cricket Club to send a Straits Settlements eleven to Hongkong next November, in connection with a proposed interport contest. Singapore has accepted the invitation.

A similar invitation was sent also to Shanghai, but the Northern club's reply has not yet been received.

BOWLS.—C.C.C.C. V. K.B.C.C.

A contest at bowls, Civil Service C.C. v. the Kowloon Bowling Green Club, was played at Kowloon on Saturday afternoon. There were many spectators, with a very fair sprinkling of ladies. This being the first match between the two Clubs it created considerable interest. Although the Kowloon club won by a good margin, the Civil Service, who are practically beginners at the game, showed good style. With practice they ought to give a better account of themselves in the return match, which is to come off in about a month's time. J. W. Robertson, of the Kowloon Club, filled the place of Jas. Macdonald in the Civil Service team, the latter being absent. The games were as follows:—

POLICE COURT.

Saturday, 11th July.

BEFORE MR. H. H. J. GOMPERTZ (ACTING POLICE MAGISTRATE.)

A BEACHCOMBER.

John Mancilla, a Chilean, was charged with disorderly conduct at the Chilean Consulate. The defendant had on two previous occasions been convicted of being drunk and disorderly. He went to the Chilean Consulate on Friday and asked for money. As the Acting Consul had helped him before, and the man had not carried out instructions given to him, he refused to give him more money, whereupon defendant behaved in a disorderly manner. Fined $25 or one month's imprisonment.

ROGUES AND VAGABONDS.

Two Chinamen convicted as rogues and vagabonds were sentenced to three days' hard labour.

THEFT FROM QUARRY BAY SHIPYARD.

For stealing a piece of iron from Messrs. Butterfield and Swire's shipyard at Quarry Bay a Chinaman was sentenced to 15 days' hard labour and six hours' stocks.

BEFORE MR. J. H. KEMP (SECOND POLICE MAGISTRATE.)

A WATCHMAN WATCHED.

An Indian watchman charged with stealing three bottles of mineral waters from Messrs. Watson & Co.'s premises was sentenced to three months' hard labour.

ILLICIT OPIUM.

A Chinaman residing at No. 253, Queen's Road West, was charged with unlawful possession of 3 lbs. 3 mace, 4 cand. of prepared opium. He was fined $100.

HONGKONG LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

The Agenda for to-morrow's meeting of the Council is as follows.

BUSINESS.

1. Financial Minutes. (Nos. 30 to 38).
2. Report of the Finance Committee. (No. 7).
- Resolution by the Hon. Attorney General:—
"Resolved that in accordance with the requirements of Section 10 (2) of the Statute Laws (Revised Edition) Ordinance, 1900, the 'New Edition' of the Hongkong Ordinances prepared by Sir John Carrington and now laid before the Council, is approved."

QUESTIONS.

By Mr. G. Stewart:—

1. The open space in front of the Hongkong Club being no longer used for the storage of cement blocks, and the small railway to the Praya for the crane having been picked up, will the Government be able soon to allow the Botanical Department to open up the space for public use as a garden, as promised by Sir Henry Blake on 24th July, 1903?
2. Will it be possible this year, by dredging or otherwise, to increase the space available for small craft in the typhoon shelter at Causeway Bay, as it is much silted up at low water?

Have the Government decided on any plan for a new typhoon shelter?

3. In view of the recent fire at the Ferry Wharf, will the Government take into consideration the advisability of making improved approaches and shelters at Blake Pier and Queen's Statue Wharf?

By the Hon. H. E. Pollock:—

- In connection with the burning of the Star Ferry wharf, will the Government kindly state how many minutes (approximately) after the commencement of the fire was the water from the mains turned on to and playing on the fire?

Will the Government state what is the estimated cost of establishing a system of electric fire-alarms in the City of Victoria? Does the Government propose to establish such a system? Is it the fact that at the present time the alarm has to be given by a Police Officer who has to leave his beat for that purpose? If so, does the Government consider such a system of giving the alarm satisfactory? If the Government does not consider such a system of giving the alarm satisfactory, what steps does the Government propose to take in connection with the matter?

ORDERS OF THE DAY.

First reading of a Bill entitled An Ordinance to authorize the Appropriation of a Supplementary Sum of Three hundred and thirty-one thousand six hundred and twenty-four Dollars and forty-one Cents, to defray the Charges of the Year 1903.

First reading of a Bill entitled An Ordinance to amend The Criminal Procedure Ordinance, 1890.

N.B.—A meeting of the Finance Committee will be held immediately after the Council.

NAVAL.

THE FRENCH CRUISERS.

The three French cruisers which left port on Friday, writes a correspondent, the Guedon, Montcalm and Sully, are very peculiar-looking vessels, though, of course, they are very fast steamers, and may be equally efficient in other respects. Looking at them for the first time they remind one of two steamers with their sterns cut off, stuck together!

GOOD WORK BY BRITISH WARSHIPS.

The good work discovering and chasing should by British warships in Far Eastern waters is very great. Sometimes, indeed, the vessels find the uncharted rocks, shoals or other dangers to their coast, as was evidenced by the Gorgon's mishap down south and the Sperver's mishap up north. The most recent "find" was that of Commander C. E. Moore, of H.M.S. Rambler, when a few days ago he discovered the existence of a shoal patch in the approach to Amoy Harbour. A good name for this on the chart would be "Rambler Shoal."

A BUNCH OF BOOKS.

The Watchers. By A. E. W. Mason. London: T. Fisher Unwin.

It is so seldom (and here the reviewer speaks with becoming deference to the great army of fiction producers) that any really good thing comes with the modern batch of novels, that the temptation to exaggeration of praise in the case of the merely mediocre is ever present. The "so-so" kind are as kindly dealt with as is consistent with truth—review truth. The "rather better" have to be praised. What remains but superlatives, then, for so peculiarly good a story as "The Watchers"? Of course Mr. Mason is far from being an unknown writer. Much previous good work had prepared us for "The Watchers," which is a very stirring story of Cornwall a hundred and fifty years ago, with pirates as real as poor Stevenson's, and diction well-nigh (for it were hereby to omit some qualification) as musical and clear-cut as any Stevensonian specimen. No reader, however, fully fared on novel diet, will be able to lose interest in the thread of "Stephen Berkeley's" tale, although many will guess, before the final chapter is turned, how it was that the beautiful Helen came to commit suicide and to laugh unconsciously of it the next day. To all but that enlightened and elect few who "can't stand Dickens," &c., this novel is recommended with confidence.

As We Forgive Them. By William Le Queux. London: George Bell & Sons.

Another "Quenxotic" novel, of the absorbing interest and suspense of mystery which novel-readers have learned to look for from this prolific writer. Such as do not mind a few improbabilities, who have no eye for occasional inartistic turns of expression, and to whom the incidental banality causes no feeling of distaste, will revel in this as in past stories from the same pen. A mysterious pilgrimage for a mysterious purpose, which turns out to be the discovery of a Monte Cristo treasure hidden in a mysterious cave, the secret guarded by a mysterious pack of cards, and the searchers in constant peril of unscrupulous people who "smile mysteriously" and turn out honest at the last—who could resist such a combination, especially when there is a healthy and charming "love interest" to inspire sympathy, and a feeling of satisfaction when the concluding pages show the happy finish? Not the reader who wants a thrilling story straightly told, and that is what "As We Forgive Them" really is.

The Gage of Red and White. By GRAHAM HOPE. London and Bombay: George Bell & Sons.

THIS is an entertaining historical novel dealing with the Court life of France in the days when Calais was yet an English fortress. The central figure is Duc d'Anjou, the great soldier and chivalrous knight and unsuccessful Statesman. Romantic, and written in a manner wholly fascinating, "The Gage of Red and White" is a book as readable as it is historically valuable.

Rulers of Kings. By GERTRUDE ATHON. London: Macmillan & Co., Ltd.

THIS authoress always does take as a basis for her fictional writings the assumption that "United Statesmen" (so she calls them) are a distinctly superior kind of being as compared with any other of the older nations, and more especially that the American women no less than their countrymen are also imbued with all the high qualities that go to make up this transcendental superiority. It must be admitted, however, that apart from this not altogether desirable idiosyncrasy she writes fascinatingly, draws her characters well, and groups them effectively. So much can certainly be said with respect to Rulers of Kings. The story concerns a young fellow who is brought up in the country in indifferent-living circumstances and has concealed from him the fact that his father is a multi-millionaire financier of New York, who has adopted this method of upbringing so that his son may learn to know what adversity means before being called upon to take up the business of which he is destined to be the head. The method employed appears to be a success, for young Fessenden Abbott prospers all right and ends up by marrying the daughter of an Emperor. The book is fanciful, light and amusing, though somewhat tame as regards its plot. Messrs. Kelly & Walsh have the work on sale.

Nature's Comedian. By W. E. NORRIS. London and Bombay: Longmans, Green & Co.

HAROLD DUNVILLE is the son of a country cleric who is outcast from his family because he commits the heinous offence of going upon the stage, and it is only after his parents' death that he is permitted as a prodigal son to re-enter the fold. His brother, also a clergyman, is also secretly enamoured of the stage, and he writes a play and gets Harold to produce it as his own, with immense success. Meanwhile the brilliant young actor is disappointed in love, and in a sort of frenzy of disappointment becomes engaged to one of the ladies of his company. But the marriage never takes place, for Harold, realising in time that he has made a mistake and mortgaged his happiness and career in a spirit of chagrin, sacrifices his life in an attempt to save a chorus girl from a burning theatre.

Mrs. Mary Tredway, who was a friend and companion of the late Queen Victoria, has died at Chester, New Jersey, at the age of ninety-four. Her maiden name was Mary Williamson, and her father was physician to the family of George IV. and to Queen Victoria after her accession. When Mrs. Tredway was a little girl she oft went to the Royal palace with her father, and there became well acquainted with the young girl who was afterwards ruler of the British Empire. She married a Baptist clergyman, and went to America about seventy years ago.

ENQUIRIES SOLICITED.

Hongkong, 29th April, 1904.

RAISING A WHARF.

For some time past that end of the Hongkong-Canton and Macao Steamboat Co.'s wharf next the Praya has been gradually subsiding, due doubtless to the heavy buildings erected inside the gate. When the wharf sank no less than five inches it was thought advisable to take measures to stop the subsidence, especially as the iron piers and stanchions were beginning to show signs of giving way under the strain put upon them. Yesterday was the day fixed for carrying out the raising operations. A staging was erected underneath from which to proceed with the work and everything was got ready for a start as soon as the bustle attendant on the departure of the Hongkong at noon should have passed off. The gates were then shut and casual visitors to the pier had to make use of a temporary bamboo bridge leading from the Praya at the side of the entrance. The power employed for hoisting the end of the wharf was hydraulic. When the apparatus once set to work the huge bulk, weighing something like 80 tons, was forced slowly up and back into its original position. Owing to the heavy superstructure, the operation was rendered more difficult as there was a danger of the gate-wall collapsing when the base was being pushed upwards. Fortunately there was no mishap, and the work was carried out quite successfully. A large crowd of Chinese assembled to witness the unusual spectacle. As is usual with them under such circumstances, they would persist in getting close up to the job to have a "look-see" heedless of the possible fall of the wall; and it was only with difficulty that they could be kept outside the zone of danger. Mr. D. Macdonald, consulting engineer, supervised the operation.

THE TABLOID AGE.

A writer in the St. James's Gazette believes that we are all of us destined soon to lead "the tabloid life." Here is his plaint: "It is surely coming. Already they condense eggs and send them in the solid to the ends of the earth. Now milk is being similarly treated. Only when they have got the milk solidified they do not devote it solely to culinary purposes. The fluid solidified becomes mainly an article for manufacture. The inventive mind of a Vienna scientist has discovered a way of utilizing skimmed milk for the manufacture of sugar of milk and milk champagne. The latter is mixed with fruit juices and impregnated with carbonic acid, and is champagne! From the residue of casein, cheese, glue and putty are derived. But the greatest wonder is gelatin, or petified milk. This forms a substance which acts as substitute for bone, shell, ivory, celluloid, marble, amber and hard rubber. Handles of knives and forks, paper cutters, crayons, pipes, cigar holders, seals, marble, stone ornaments—all these are now made of skimmed milk. Austria is manufacturing the new substance at the rate of 5,000 gallons of skimmed milk per day. The cow is thus not only meat and drink, footwear, medicine and ornament to man, its master; now we are to build its marble halls of its milk. The castle in Spain is doomed when we can go and extract a mansion from the dairy."

SHIPPING NOTES.

STEAMER MOVEMENTS.
The I.G.M. steamer Preussen left Colombo on Saturday, the 9th July, p.m., and may be expected here on Wednesday, the 20th July.

The O.S.S. & C.M. steamer Sargodon left Singapore for this port on the 8th July, and is due here on the 13th July, at daylight.

The J.C.L. steamer Tijapona, left M. J. at Amoy for this port on the 7th July, and may be expected here on or about the 18th July.

WEATHER AT SEA.
The Lipa, from Manila, reports fine weather. The Anglin, from Bangkok, reports moderate S.W. monsoon. The Loi Sang, also from Bangkok, reports fine S.W. monsoon in the Gulf of Siam, thence to port rough weather and overcast. The Dagmar on her passage from Swatow to Hongkong experienced fresh from Manila, reports light variable winds and calm. The Bushua reports thence to Mindoro Straits, strong S.W. wind and squally; thence to port, strong S.W. wind, heavy rain squalls and falling barometer.

ARC LIGHTS FOR CARGO WORK.
A China Mutual steamer in port is one of the few steamers that visit Hongkong using arc lights for cargo work. The two brilliant lamps—one forward and one aft—is found quite sufficient—are fixed high up on the mast, and they throw a bright white sheet of light on all below them, even penetrating to the depths of the hold. German mail steamers visiting Hongkong use electric cargo lamps with broad conical-shaped reflectors, while P. & O. steamers use electric lights without reflectors, with the idea of diffusing the light over a greater area. The arc lamps are far and away superior to the others.

REPORT OF AN EXPERT.
The representative of Messrs. BRATBY and THINGILLIE, LIMITED, Aerated Water Engineers and Chemists, Manchester, visited our factory recently in the course of a tour amongst Eastern Aerated Water Works, and was greatly surprised at the compactness of our factory and also the methodical way in which everything pertaining to the making of Aerated Waters was carried out. He also expressed himself strongly on the absolute cleanliness of our whole establishment, which he assured us was equal to any he had yet visited and superior to the great many. He also reported that the quality of our goods was of a first-class nature, and they showed that scrupulous care was exercised in the course of their manufacture. Order Books and Price List. THE BRITISH CIVIL SERVICE IN THE ORIENT.

The following article written for American papers by W. E. Curtis, special correspondent, ought to be read with some gratification by Englishmen. Writing from Singapore in April last, Mr. Curtis opens:—The Civil Service of India and other British provinces in the East is a matter of national pride, and no one can study its records and its methods without admiring its success and its superiority to the ordinary official administration of other Governments.

The reason for the character and efficiency of the official staff in Egypt, India, Burma, Ceylon, the Straits Settlements, the Malay Federation, Hongkong and other British provinces in the East is easily found. The Government gets good men because it offers suitable inducements, permanent positions at large salaries, rapid promotion for merit, with liberal leaves of absence, and pensions upon retirement at the termination of certain periods of service. Our Government must adopt a similar policy in the Philippines if it would have an equally good administration. Every Congressman and every other person interested in the administration of affairs in Manila, particularly President Roosevelt, Secretary Taft, Governor Wright, and those who have immediate control of affairs, should carefully study the salary list of the British colonies in the East, particularly that of India, the conditions of appointment, and the regulations governing the Civil Service.

There has already been considerable criticism of the large salaries now paid to officials in the Philippines, but it comes from people who know nothing whatever of the requirements necessary for the compensation received by similar officials in other parts of the East. I have a comparative statement showing in American and British India, Ceylon, the Straits Settlements, Hongkong, and other British colonies to officials of corresponding rank or performing similar duties, and I suggest that it is worthy of the attention of those who are taking an interest in this subject.

Governor	28,500	81,000	82,500	82,500	82,500
Chief Justice	2,500	8,218	9,711	1,355	1,355
Assoc. Justice	7,500	11,118	8,215	10,300	7,750
Head of Dept.	4,000	8,215	3,253	4,870	4,947
Deputy Secy.	1,500	14,938
Asst. Secy.	7,000	14,118	5,820	4,100	5,420
Treasurer	7,400	8,258	5,820	6,400	5,420
Chief Justice	7,500	23,318	6,899	13,500	8,130
Assoc. Justice
Deputy Secy.	7,600	11,918	5,820	8,400	6,205
Deputy Secy.	5,500	11,958	5,820		5,420
Clerk of Sessions	3,900	8,218	1,940	5,400	3,400
Attorney-General	7,400	14,278	5,820	7,250	6,205
Solicitor-General	5,500	8,215	3,253		4,000

You will notice that although the Governors of Ceylon, Hongkong, and the Straits Settlements have duties and responsibilities that are insignificant compared with those imposed upon Governor Wright of the Philippines, they get about $10,000 a year more salary than he. And the heads of departments in India receive as much as the Governor of the Philippines. The Chief Justice of Hongkong, a little settlement not so large as the District of Columbia, has $5,000 a year more than the Chief Justice at Manila, and the Chief Justice of India has $16,000 more, while the Associate Justices in these colonies get twice as much as in the Philippines, the judges of the lower courts nearly three times as much, and other judicial officers corresponding advances. It is refreshing occasionally to discover that one of our men gets more salary than the Englishman. This peculiar distinction belongs to the superintendent of education, health inspectors, and one or two other scientific men in Manila. But, as a rule, the salaries paid in the British colonies will average twice as much as those we pay in the Philippines, and in the case of provincial Governors in India they are twelve times as much.

Lieutenant-Governors in India receive $78,800 a year, and secretaries or heads of bureaus in the provinces are paid $12,500 a year, which is more than is received by the commissioners in the Philippines. Members of the boards of revenue in India receive $15,000 a year. All magistrates of the first class throughout the empire are paid $10,000 a year, which is the minimum of the Philippines. District and session judges receive from that amount to $15,000 a year, according to their length of service and importance of the circuit over which they preside.

In Burma where official responsibilities and duties are as light as in any other country of the world, and where the population is only 7,000,580, the Governor receives $85,000 a year, the Chief Secretary $12,500, four under secretaries $8,500 a year each, the finance officer or treasurer $14,500, disbursing officer $11,500, commissioners who are local executives in charge of districts, $12,500 each, and a commissioner of agriculture $11,500.

All of the gentlemen now occupying these positions and drawing their salaries, excepting the judges, began at the bottom of the ladder. They entered the public service in India and the colonies before they were twenty-five years old, after passing two examinations, the second occurring after one year of probation, in which their administrative qualities and adaptability had been fairly tested, and the record they made during that first year counted so many numbers in their total standing. They have been compelled to submit to similar examinations at every promotion since, and have worked their way up by merit, without political influence, although, as is always the case, the personal equation entered into every calculation.

A good many weak ones drop out by the wayside. The Civil Service in the East Indies is a survival of the fittest, and you may be sure that a man who survives all of the tests and conditions incident to advancement is made of good stuff. At the same time, when he enters the service he knows that nobody but a better man can get ahead of him; he is sure that he will not be displaced by the favorite of some Member of Parliament, and that every time a vacancy occurs he stands an equal chance of promotion with everybody else of his rank.

He knows, too, that his employment is permanent upon good behaviour, and that, after twenty-four years of service, he will be entitled to a pension if he desires to retire. Those pensions vary from $360 to $108 (2) a year, according to the rank of the official, and they have the privilege of commutating them and receiving a stated amount of cash, which is calculated by an actuary on the same basis as a life insurance premium. But, unlike the rule of our Government, if a pensioner accepts any other office or receives any other emolument from the Government the amount of his pension must be deducted.

The British Government gives pensions to both its civil and military officers upon retirement for age or disability, but requires both to provide for their wives and children after death by a form of compulsory insurance. The details may be found at length in the army regulations. Similar regulations prevail in all the European countries. Every officer who enters the military service, if he be married, must, as a condition of his appointment, pay into the treasury a stated sum for his wife and for each of his children. This sum varies according to his age, and is based upon the same basis as life insurance premiums. Every time he is promoted and upon the birth of every child his premium, or "contribution," as it is called, is increased, and each officer, both married or unmarried, must submit to a monthly deduction from his pay for insurance purposes.

For this the officers of the army, navy, and marine corps are divided into five classes, according to their rank.

If an officer retires from the service his premium is reduced one-half, or he is permitted to take a paid-up policy for the insurance value of his investment; or he can settle his understanding all his obligations for each, the same as with an insurance company.

Officers who are dismissed from the service by the sentence of court-martial lose everything; their insurance is declared void and all premiums they have paid are forfeited to the Government as a part of the penalty. By another arrangement officers of the army may insure the free return of their wives and families to England from any part of the tropics in case of their death. This is very common. Few married officers neglect the precaution for the amount of the premium is small and the benefit is comparatively large. All they have to do is pay a small sum, something about $10, into the treasury and receive from the Government a certificate entitling their wives and children to free first-class passage to London or any other point in England.

Under the insurance regulations above given, the widows of officers of Class I. receive annual pension of $900; of Class II. $650; of Class III. $500; of Class IV. $350; of Class V. $200, and $50 a year for each child up to the age of six years; $100 for children between six and twelve years; $150 for those children between twelve and twenty-one years; and daughters over twenty receive $225 a year for life or until marriage. No pensions are paid to sons after they reach the age of twenty-one.
